Making Spellings Memorable

Memory plays a key part in the accurate recall of spellings. The majority of pupils with dyslexia have difficulty with sequential memory and so need to develop additional ways of aiding recall.

Learning to spell can be a boring process, but using a variety of materials and activities can make it more enjoyable and hopefully make spellings more memorable.

Work on a small number of words at any one time using multi sensory activities, and, even after success has been achieved, return to them from time to time for a quick review.
